Chambers Contributor Global Practice Guides 2025 Cloud Computing

Simon Henseler is a senior associate in the information technology, intellectual property and competition team. He primarily advises and represents Swiss and international companies concerning all aspects of data protection, information, and technology law (incl. IT contract law). His main areas of expertise include cloud and AI projects, data security incidents and general data protection compliance (under European and Swiss law). In addition, he takes on mandates as an external data protection officer. Simon Henseler regularly publishes scientific papers in his fields of expertise, for example as an author in commentaries on the Swiss Data Protection Act.

After studying law at the University of Fribourg and the University of Copenhagen (MLaw, 2016), Simon Henseler was admitted to the Aargau bar in 2018. He obtained his doctoral degree from the University of Zurich with a thesis on Swiss and European data protection law (Dr. iur., 2025) and is a certified Information Privacy Professional (CIPP/E). Before joining Walder Wyss, he worked for the Center for Information Technology, Society, and Law (ITSL) and the University Research Priority Program Financial Market Regulation of the University of Zurich.

Simon Henseler's professional languages are German and English. He also speaks French. He is registered with the Zurich Bar Registry and admitted to practice in all of Switzerland.
